Message from Sadr Ansarullah, USA

Dear Ansar: السَّلَامُ عَلَيْكُمْ وَرَحْمَةُ اللَّهِ وَبَرَكَاتُهُ

It is sadly too often that we hear news of health problems among the Ansar. Some of this inevitably comes with the territory, so to speak. Nevertheless it is incumbent upon us to pay as much attention to our physical and mental health as we do to our spiritual well-being. There is a huge amount of information available on every aspect of health related issues for men over forty; go to the internet or browse through any magazine or periodical and you will find everything you need to keep you updated on the latest medical developments. Monitoring our diet and exercise habits is of paramount importance if we want to succeed in remaining healthy as Ansar. I am, therefore, taking the liberty to reproduce a portion of the health plan written by our Qaid Zahanat wa Sehat-e-Jismani (Intellect and Physical Health), Dr. B. K. Ahmad, for your information and integration into your lives:

"The vast majority of us live sedentary lives. Most of us go to work in the morning and return late in the evening, leaving little personal time for ourselves. Even though we cannot change certain factors such as our sex, genetic heritage, we can certainly take steps to change our risk for life threatening diseases, promote longevity and enhance overall well-being.

In order to maintain good health we must get into the habit of regular exercise. Considering our age group we have to be careful and must have a medical check-up before getting started. Things to check are blood pressure, fasting blood sugar and blood cholesterol levels. If there is a family history of heart disease, an EKG may be needed and, if necessary, an exercise stress test. If someone doesn't have health insurance a local Ahmadi doctor may be able to arrange a free check-up.

The weather in most places is fair in spring and summer. Get out into the fresh air and walk. All you need is a pair of good walking shoes and a safe place to walk. The best time is in the morning after Fajr prayers. Late evening may suit others. It sure beats sitting in front of the TV. Benefits include weight loss as well as increasing overall fitness.

Start walking slowly. Time yourself. Make sure you warm up first and cool down after each exercise period. Listen to your body. Do not overdo it. As you get used to the exercise routine and build up physical endurance, you will begin to feel better. Make adjustments in your weekly work schedule gradually to accommodate time for exercise. Share your progress with other Ansar at the monthly Ansar meeting."

I urge all members to incorporate some kind of physical activity in their daily lives. There is no doubt that this will also act as a catalyst to enhance our emotional and our spiritual lives, Insha Allah. May Allah give us the energy and determination to commit to improving our health, Ameen.
